Editors' Address: Growing New Wine

This year has marked some major changes at the Study. Our growing student population made some renovations necessary and a new gym, as well as some other classrooms, were planned for this year. After years of hoping, planning, and fundraising we finally inaugurated our new, regulation size, gymnasium. Everyone was ecstatic that day, but none more than our teachers in the Phys. Ed. department. It may be four and a half floors up from the locker rooms, but not many of us mind trekking up to the spacious new gym.

All in all, we've been quite busy this year! If you don't believe us, just keep flipping through our yearbook. Hopefully you will enjoy reminiscing as much as we enjoyed recording the memories.

Co-Editors

Headmistress' Message

Dear Graduates of 1999,

The very date of your graduation "1999", date which closes this century, date which closes this millennium, invites us to look back and take stock.

This is your last year at The Study. 1999 is when you close the first important chapter on your path to post secondary education and begin to seriously shape your futures. You are a group of young women who impressed me with your team spirit; you are a group of young women who made things happen. You made a difference in the life of the school and in the lives of the younger girls.

As you look back on the experiences recorded in the Trillium, I hope that your perusal will remind you of the good things you have been taught, that it will stimulate the sense of pride that you have developed, that it will encourage you to go on to the greatness of which you are personally capable.

As a graduate and student of The Study, you have a great tradition to live up to and to enhance. This past year I had the privilege of piloting the construction of our new gymnasium. This showed me that anything is possible, if you start with a dream and work hard to make it happen. You lived through some of the upheavals the building caused in the life of the school, but look at what legacy our combined efforts leave to those following in your footsteps.

I have taken stock too, and it is with these reflections that I want to leave you, Grads of '99. Always have a dream, a goal, never allow some bumps along the road to make you lose sight of it. For once you've overcome the obstacles, one by one, your dreams can become reality, your goals are within your grasp.

Good luck- Bonne chance!

Sincerely,
Mary Liistro Hebert

"Please allow me this kindness, for I shall not pass this way again." We are the last of our kind, the last of the old ways, the last of the millennium. Never again will there be a class so tightly bonded together as ours. Remember the security of recognizing the voice at the end of the receiver after one simple hello. Remember sharing fairytale dreams, endless laughter, bittersweet heartbreaks, uplifting successes, and poignant failures.Thank you mommy and daddy for your strength and love, I would be nothing without the foundation you have given me. Jason be good. Thank you to all my teachers, my mentors, my guides, you have taught me to search beyond the textbook for my answers. To my classmates... I look at you now and I am so proud and so happy. Proud because I see a group of talented, beautiful, strong young women about to tackle a new, exiting, yet scary new world. Happy because I have been so lucky to have loved them so much. So I pray that you shall live your greatest dreams, that you will find the happiness you deserve, that you will always have the strength to fight for that which is right, and that you will always remember..."Be kind, for everyone is fighting their own hard battle." Forever, Isabel looking back on eleven years of memories, it seems impossible to recount it all - the numerous faces, kind words and caring gestures that have made all the difference - i wish only to thank you for those times. to my class, the incredible bunch of people who make lockeroom music schedules, throw hundreds of surprise b-day parties and are compulsive huggers, we've been through so much and have become so strong. to my friends, who withstood my wackiness, water-drinking and cheeze-eating habits; never forget the long talks, the red fish of the early days, the lawnmower man/pogo stick times, and coming together to listen and share what we were passionate about - vos mots d'inspiration et votre gentillesse resteront toujours gravés dans ma mémoire. to my teachers, who have taught me their love of learning (not only with cookies) supporting and encouraging me the whole way. mom and dad, your love and guidance have given me the confidence to pursue my wildest dreams. my little brother, your "hugs of the day" and spunkiness have always kept me smiling. "and where will we go, what will we do? soon said i, will know... but i'll be under your stars forever, neither here nor there just right beside you." sp ~ luv jen

On this long and weary path I have faltered and fallen, through moments of clarity and confusion. Now that I've come to the end of the road I see it's nothing like I'd imagined it. No fanfare, no blinding light. What I see is just more road. But this is the moment when I can pause, look directly at the path ahead, choose my way and glimpse my future before I bow my head and toil on. I have come a long way and when I glance back at the small path I have carved for myself the great distance left to travel seems less daunting. I can do this. I will understand my journey as well as my destination. / I can't take complete credit for coming as far as I did in one piece: Sara, you inspire me. Jen, (2nd Cup, pre-Cotillion, lawnmower man) how can you know me so well? Mel, (shoe-flowers) Thanks for the support, sweetie. Isabel, you make me feel I can be a better person (I won't swear, promise!). Thanks to my teachers (esp. RH, PL, DF, ER) for their knowledge and compassion. Aslicim, I love you the most. Annem ve Babam, sizi seviyorum. /I think it is important to have a goal - a dream, or a vision. But you shouldn't spend your whole life trying to reach it as fast as possible. -Sara Kreil /Almost everything you do will be insignificant, but it is very important that you do it. - M. Ladies & gentlemen: please attend carefully to these words & events It's your last chance, our last hope. In this womb or tomb, we're free of the swarming streets. The black fever which rages is safely out those doors. My friends & I come from Far Arden w/dances, & new music. Everywhere followers accrue to our procession. Tales of Kings, gods, warriors and lovers dangled like jewels for your careless pleasure. I'm Me! Can you dig it? My meat is real. My hands-how they move, balanced like lithe demons. My hair-so twined & writhing. The skin of my face-pinch the cheeks. My sword tongue spraying verbal fire-flys. I'm real. I'm human. But I'm not an ordinary man. No No No.

The years have come and they have gone. All too soon we have lost today. As the world revolves the stars shine clear, we, all of us, are lost and need that light to find our way. We are striving, growing, and yes, learning along the way. What is there to do? But reach one more distance, try with all my strengths and hope with all my soul that you will do the same. My love to all my thanks for each one, for you have touched me, picked up the chisel and carved me. My wings have been shaped. My eyes have been opened. I thank you, for I am the better because of you. You have spoken softly sanding my sides along the way. So now I stand, tall and defined, determined to be brave. Thank you,thank you, for now there is beauty to look upon. And so I part, and take my leave. I step off the sculptors pedestal and walk towards the gate. I now have the keys and all that remains is life and light and breath. So now I fly. Adieu, my fond friend, adieu!

"As a child I once had a dream." I asked the world on my knees. "Tell me, tell me what you're after I just want to get there faster." But now it has moved so slow and yet so fast that I miss my ancient hatred of its speed. "It's not easy when you're scared." So I beg, "Say hello before you say goodbye. I should go, before you make me cry. She wants to bleed every drop of my blood, but I aim to please the little girl inside of me." "Well, you've gotta know, I don't understand. Well, you've gotta to know who I am really am. Give me one more chance." How much I fear failure. "Not worth asking, who I'm supposed to be. Not worth being, I might already be. It's too late, too late. I'm on my own; I'm on my own. I've gotta go so far away. Not worth saying something, seems I'm free. Not worth reaching to anyone at all. Not worth reaching out, I'll stop this fall." "As a child, I once had a dream." I've learned that "if I knew a way to go, I'd gather up my throwing stone."

A life without dreams isn't a life at all. So close ur eyes and don't be afraid to fall. The ones who luv u keep a steady hand, and will always walk beside u until u reach ur promised land. I'll stand awhile, to see you all safely on ur way, but my own path awaits, so one last look at the past where I no longer have a say. No goodbyes, no regrets, we'll be together in our mind's eye, and the only tear that I will shed is for joy of my life gone by. So begin ur journey and I'll begin mine, I know we'll meet again at the end of the line. The past is starting to fade, the future to dawn, I must take my leave as my mind's only half made. One steady breath, one quivering prayer, as I face the warmth I cast off another mask, another layer. No time to waste, here I go, off to fly, and thanx to u, I go with a smile upon my face. Thanku 2 all of my wonderful friends, I love u all, we had the greatest times and made priceless memories (CN, JP, SK, MM, IF luv u most!) (thankyou teachers!), and 2 my family and extended family for ur unconditional luv, and 2 SM, DM, EM, JT, GD, GS, CD, SG, we can lose our bond, but we can never break it. I cannot believe I am about to complete one step in my life. I must tell ya...time has flown before me. I just wanna say thanks for those who supported me when I first arrived, and made the three Study years unforgettable. It was hard adapting...but slowly I was able to fit in, thanks to my classmates and teachers. I also wanna thank my parents for giving me this wondergul opportunity. Mae e pai...muito obrigada...eu amo vcs muito! Where I go, classmates and teachers, I will carry you with me...in my memories and my heart.

Michelle,
Luv u all!

To the amazing class of '99,

Don't walk in front of me, I may not follow;
Don't walk behind me, I may not lead;
Just walk beside me and be my friend.

12 years... can you believe it? I can't. It seems that yesterday we were reading the Balloon Tree and bringing in our pets for show and tell, and now, it's over. The six of us have grown from scared children to confident young women together. But now, ready to take on the world, we must do it alone. No more smiles from Miriam, spars with Pinar, changes from Sam (that can't be natural!), stories from Isabelle, or motivation from the other Isabel. But, wherever our lives take us, I know that we will always remember our care-free Kindergarten days, in our big classroom filled with books, toys, and friends. What more could one ask for?

May we always dream of what we dreamt at nap-time, may we always think of cops and robbers as an endless means of fun where no one loses, may we always have time for a story, may a tire hung by three chains always represent the greatest thing ever invented, and may we always judge others with the same pure and innocent eyes with which we first judged each other, if we even judged at all...

Tête et Sous-tête

This is your tête and sous-tête leaving our last imprint on the school we have slept, breathed, cried, dreamed and laughed in. Firstly, there are two very special people-like objects that must be credited for all kinds of last minute jobs. Gretzky and Mendel, we owe you our ties! Thank you Frau Sutherland, without you nothing would happen, you are the light guiding us on rough terrain. To all teachers, thank you for your patience, translating skills and photocopying talents. Miriam, our basket balls bounce higher because of you, Melinda, keep on rolling... Kaitlyn, thank you for your endless spirit, Rachel for giving us the best grad ever, and Aleta for not eating the tuck. To our class, you guys rock our world. To the rest of the school, thank you for giving us this opportunity and for showing us your spirit. We would not trade this experience for anything in the world. Good luck to next year's victims!

TOP TEN THINGS NOT TO DO
WHEN YOU ARE HEAD AND SUBHEAD

10. Attend more than three meetings a day.
9. Hold puppets to the point of losing feeling in your arm.
8. Attempt to translate word for word in French.
7. Rely on tuck for a balanced meal.
6. Hide prefect ties and forget where you hid them.
5. Imitate zit commercials.
4. Have prefect meetings before the sun has risen.
3. Stay in school for more than twelve hours without parental permission.
2. Become emotionally attached to a computer.
1. Sing in assembly.

Sports Captain & Treasurer

Finally! A new gym. It took a while but here it is. This year has been great in terms of sports. First, I'd like to thank everyone who came to intramurals- you guys showed a lot of spirit, the house sports captains for being at most intramurals, and to Mme Carriere, Mrs. Crossley and Mrs. Balfour for always being so helpful. Spirit and enthusiasm are the keys to success! I had a great time being sports captain and good luck to next year's captain.
Whatever you do, milk that new gym for all it's worth-- you deserve it!

Miriam McLeod, Sports Captain

One of the continuing traditions at The Study is the charitable contributions the students make to those in need. From the little munchkins in Kindergarten to the sages in the Senior School, a strong sense of compassion for those less fortunate is fostered in us all. This year we were glad to once again help make a difference. On behalf of all the people and organizations we supported this year, I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for giving so generously.

-Melinda

P.S. Best of luck to next year's Treasurer!

Tuck Committee

After a year of constantly running to the lunchroom to sell the poor, starving, suffering senior school students tuck, I have come to two realizations: 1) Chocolate is the greatest of attractions; 2) I will never eat another chocolate bar in my life I know what you are thinking. I would like to thank the members of the committee for helping me, the senior school for funding our grad and the people at Club Price who condescendingly stared me down every time I went there and returned with a basket full of candy. A word of advice to next year's committee: always have the key handy, never become frustrated or rude to the supporters of the best night of your life, and be happy, because, after all, just think what it would be like to be head girl!
Long live appetites and Hershey, Cadbury, Nestle, etc.
Forever in the thoughts of your stomach,

Aleta

Grad Committee

Rachel Leider

Budgets have never really been in my vocabulary, but after being grad prefect, I've learned to compromise. Thanks to Mrs. Sutherland for chasing me around and making sure I was on track. To my committee, Mel, Sam, Van, Mir, thanks for listening and helping me. It wouldn't have been possible without you. I'm honored to be in charge of the most "important" event in our high school lives.

Rachel

Entertainment Committee

As most of you know, my eternal goal in life is to entertain people, and I do hope I've done a satisfactory job with the dances, talent show and Cotillion. Personally, I've had a great time and am thrilled I got a chance to do it. Thanks to my committee, Jane, Celina, Liz, and Isabelle. Also to the ever organized Frau Sutherland.

And always remember, a little nonsense now and then is cherished by the wisest man.

Whoa! What a ride! Here we are printed in the finished yearbook that you are casually reading. You probably paused on this page to see who put this great book together. Well, here we are. We've put our time and effort into a slender book you will flip through in about 25.6 minutes. Ah, the ironies of life.... To be honest we've had a great time. We've left our creative mark on the school and now we know the feeling of flipping through a PRINTED BOOK and seeing pages we've designed.

Still, creating this book was quite a feat and we (the Editors) couldn't have done it without the help of the following people:

First and foremost, our advisors, Mrs. Sutherland and Mme Charpentier who were always ready to support and encourage us and keep us on track;

Our fabulous staff, Isabel, Celina, Jess B, Poki, Sissi, Megan, and Randa who worked tirelessly;

Jessica Tory and Jessica Berger who were always ready to snap photos for us;

Celina, Elena, Isabelle, Caroline, Sarajane, and all the others who made our wonderful dividers; and

Last, but most certainly not least, Jen, our revered computer genius (emphasis on the genius) who somehow managed to edit and correct practically every page of this book (Oh no, Jen! A typoe!) and tolerated our computer illiteracy. (Do the power plugs go in the electrical socket, Jen? Jen? Jen?!?!)

And that is how we did it. No, no. Thanks aren't necessary, we enjoyed it. Hope you do, too.

This is Cheryl and Pinar, signing off.

P.S. CROP THE CARPET WITH THE CRAPPY CROPPER!!

Newspaper

Well, what can we say…it's been a year of reinventing the newspaper! It took a lot of EFFORT and hours to put out this paper, but hard work has prevailed! Hahaha We would like to sincerely thank Ms. Reingewirtz for her relentless help and trust, Julie and Laura for their extra help, Mme Hebert for her support, and the trees for providing the paper. We would also like to thank all of the contributors for contributing. But, before we end this inspiring write-up, we would like to take the extra space to thank ourselves. We did a great job and are uncannily proud of ourselves. "Great job on continuing a Study tradition!" we say to ourselves in admiration. Well, egos must fly, after all, it is 1999! Good luck to next year's committee.

'Till the printing press brings us together again!

Debate

This year debate has been lucky to have a new coach. Beth has been a great help. With her special techniques and skills, the Debate Team got on to a great new start. Hopefully, next year, we'll be able to continue the fun by going to even more tournaments and competing against many other schools. Thank you to Ms. Rein and Beth for encouraging the team and to all the dedicated members.

Participating in the Secondary School's United Nations Symposium in November helped us realize what the United Nations are all about. During the conference, we discussed a myriad of topics concerning the state of world affairs. We also .. ahem .. met a lot of .. um .. interesting people, which we will never see again. :-) Anyway, the Model United Nations are fun and a great experience.

Crafts Club

This year, the senior school and Grade 6 got the opportunity to try out different craft projects at our Craft Club! Thanks to all our members who worked diligently on beautiful candles and holiday cards which were sold at our annual Intergalactic Bazaar. It was a great oppertunity for students to meet people in other classes and everyone had a great time. Special thanks to Ms. Gruia, Mrs. Milligan, and Ms. Swiderski for all your help and support. Well guys, we know we didn`t go to the classics conference last year, but we sure made up for it this year! Thanks for working hard and being there, and for continuing a tradition with us that was started by Mrs. Doetsch. Thanks especially to Mr. Smith, who took the reins and held tight. The conference is always an amazing experience and we hope next year will turn out just as awesome as this year. Oh, and thanks to the members who joined us on the spur of the moment. You know who you are! Good luck to Lisa and the new co-head for next year. Here's to the good times people!

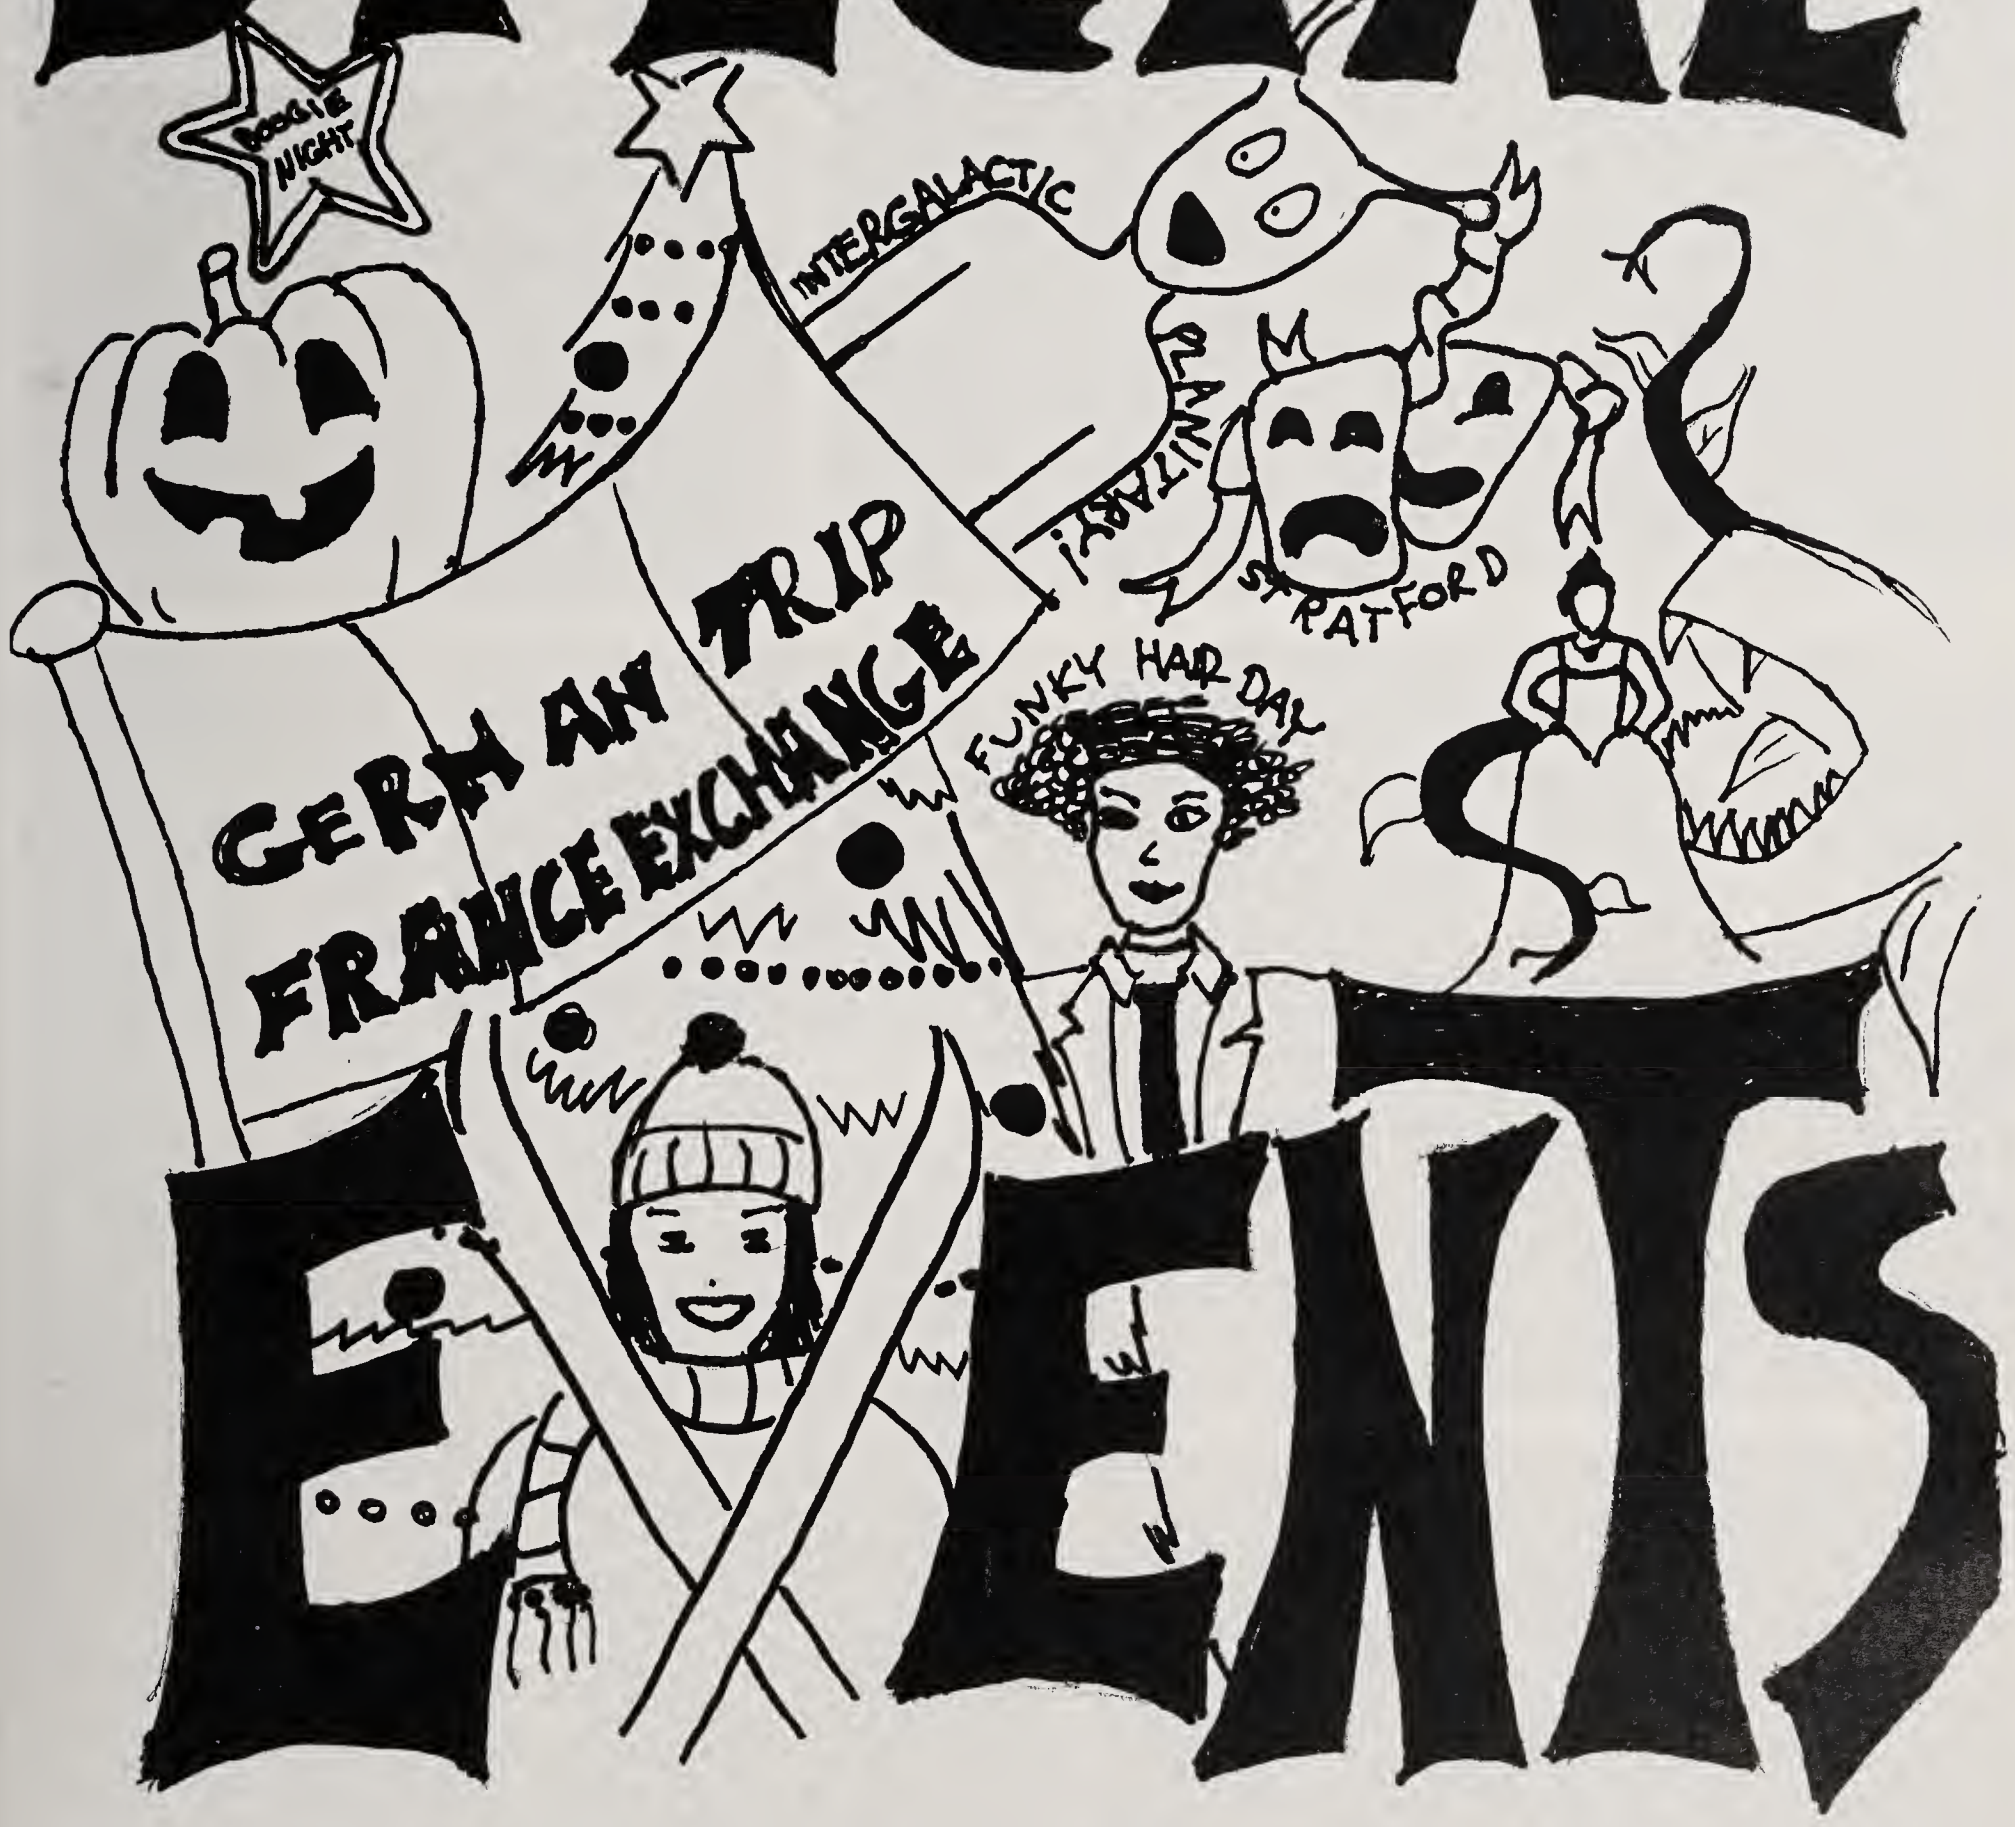
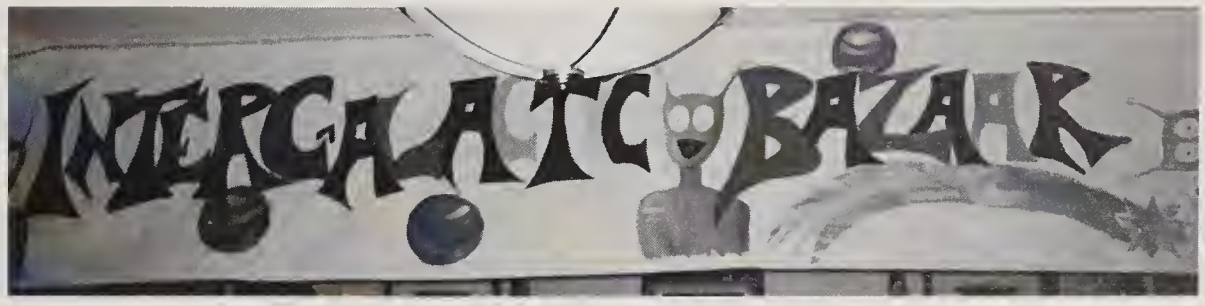
SPECIAL

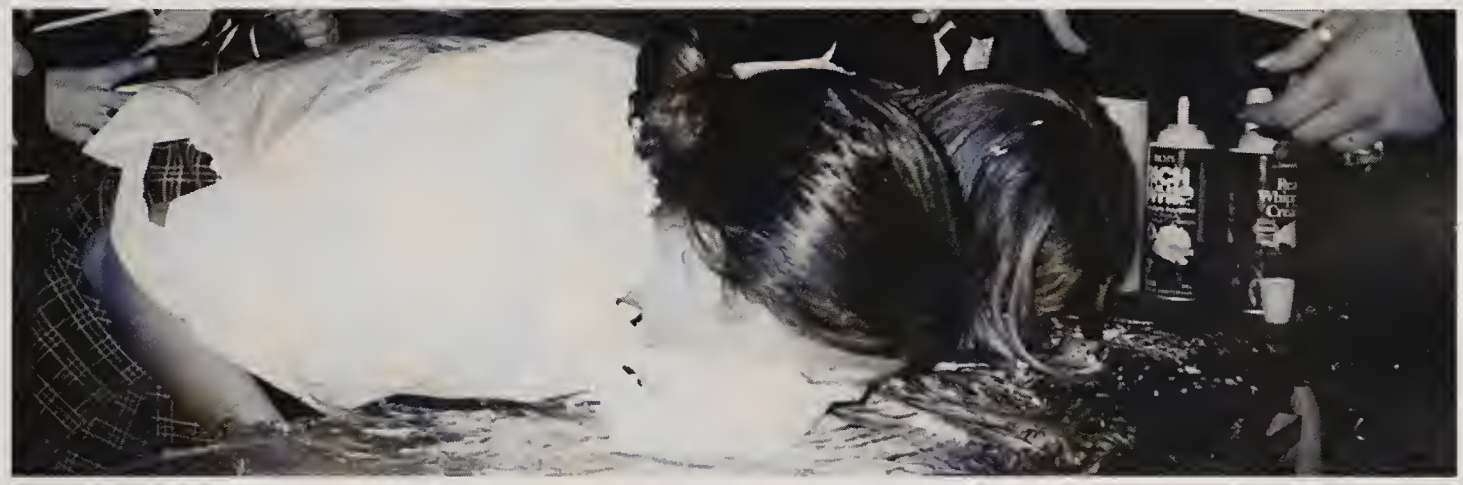


EVENTS

TALENT SHOW



This year we wanted to do something that has never been done before. So after many hours of fretting and pondering, we finally came up with the theme of an Intergalactic Bazaar. The senior school worked hard to transform the gym into another galaxy.Students and visitors were greeted by Mr. Spock and Princess Leia (Head Girl Isabel Chan and Sub-Head Girl Jennifer Errunza). Some of the money raised was donated to the Saint Columba House.



HALLOWEEN

GRADE 10 BIO TRIP

We had adventure in our minds, water bottles in hand, and knapsacks on our backs. We were ready for a day filled with fun and adventure, and what a day it was! Hiking up to the summit of Mt. Saint Hilaire, telling each other about the various flora of the mountain, and even helping the environment by picking up garbage on our way up to the top. However, the highlight of our day was a tie between visiting the "chipmunk people", where we learned an inordinate amount of information about those cute and cuddly little animals, and buying apples on our way back. We would like to thank Ms. Wellnhofer for organizing and accompanying us on the trip. We would also like to thank Mrs. Kuefler for driving us. Excellent!

Motivate '98!!

This year's Quebec Student Leadership Conference was a fantastic experience for me as I learned and improved my skills as a student leader. I met many interesting students from across the province and I thought that the host school did a great job organizing us all. The motivational speakers that we listened to were at times funny but always interesting. I attended two very engaging workshops that provided me with useful information and ideas on creating new activities and increasing the school spirit, otherwise known as "fun-raising". I am very grateful to have been given the opportunity to represent the school at such a fun and interesting event. I thought that "Motivate 1998 En Action" was great and I hope that I will have a chance to attend a similar event in years to come.

STRATFORD 1998!!!

To kick off the new school year Grades Ten and Eleven spent three fun-filled days at the Stratford Festival in Stratford, Ontario (well, one and a half if you don't count the bus ride!). We saw A Man For All Seasons by Richard Bolt, A Winter's Tale by William Shakespeare, and Man of La Mancha. Mrs. Sutherland, Mrs. Ewing, Mr. Lochtie and Ms. Rein accompanied us on our trip and Mario, our charming bus driver, was very understanding of 38 teenage girls trapped in a bus for eight hours at a time.

Thanks to our teachers for coming with us and putting up with us for three days. We had a great time!!

Study Girls In Action!!

The Study Old Girls' Association
Salutes
The Graduating Class of 1999

The Study Old Girl's Association was established back in 1924 to provide a link between Study graduates and the school. Today, 75 years later, its aim remains the same: to keep graduates in touch with each other and involved in the school, through a variety of special events and activities.

There are currently more than 1,600 members of The Study Old Girls Association – or S.O.G.A. Although many of them live and work all over the world, more than 600 of them reside in the province of Quebec.

Graduates are valued members of The Study community. They serve as role models for current students, by giving presentations on Career Day, acting as guest speakers at the Annual Church Service and helping out at community-focused school events such as the Open House. They also welcome new members to S.O.G.A. at a special luncheon for the graduating class and help fund the graduation dance.

S.O.G.A. provides graduates with a framework for keeping in contact with classmates and the school. S.O.G.A. members are invited to attend school functions, including the Church Service, Founder's Day and Leadership Lecture Series, and are sent newsletters and bulletins with information on fellow graduates.

The Study welcomes news from its graduates, who can keep in touch by mail or fax and now via the school's web page and e-mail address, which makes communicating with each other even easier. Now an alumna in Tokyo can find the address of a classmate in Toledo or reconnect a group of Study girls now living in New York.

Members of the1999 graduating class are invited to send along their news and change(s) of address to their Class Rep Isabel Chan at: 514-369-0841 or (e-mail)isabelchan99@hotmail.com You can also keep in touch with the school via Linda Sutherland in the Development Office at 3233 The Boulevard, Westmount QC H3Y 1S4, (P) 935-9352, (F) 935-1721 or e-mail (lsutherland@thestudy.qc.ca).

As you embark on new adventures and take on new challenges, remember to keep in touch with The Study, so that we can share in celebrating your successes.

Le 22 mars 1999, le groupe s'est retrouvé à l'aéroport de Dorval, attendant anxieusement le départ pour la France. Après un délai d'à-peu-près une heure, nous avons atterri sur le sol français. Notre première impression ne fut pas des meilleures: l'air était pollué et les voitures étaient tellement petites! Un autobus nous attendait pour nous conduire, ainsi que les 32 élèves de l'École Secondaire de Beaconsfield, à l'Institut du Sacré-Coeur. Nous étions tous très fatigués mais les visites à Paris ont vite fait de nous débarrasser de notre décalage horaire. Les points culminants: la Tour Eiffel, l'Arc de Triomphe, les châteaux de la Loire, les Galeries Lafayette, les promenades le long de la Seine, les longs trajets en autobus et la chanson Eddiebear, qui va nous hanter pour longtemps. Un grand merci à Mesdames Jothy et Anderson d'avoir si gentiment accepté de nous accompagner.

This year the bantam soccer team had an amazing season. We missed the playoffs by one point! This season we gained a lot of new skills that will improve over the rest of our soccer careers. We had tons of fun and we would like to thank Mrs. Balfour for being a great coach and for making our season so great. We also want to thank all our supporters who came to watch our games and who helped out. We hope next year's team will have lots of fun and good luck!

Juvy Soccer

This soccer season has been an unbelievable one. Our skills as team players have developed immensely. I'll never forget that crisp autumn day playing Sacred Heart for the third time. Having lost the first two times we were bound and determined. It just goes to show that wanting something badly enough can get you there, and that was the sweetest vistory of the all and it was a true privilege to share it with my team-mates. Also, this year we managed to break our astro-turf curse. Thank you our coach Adrien for his guidance and leadership. Good luck to everyone next year.

This season the bantam and midget volleyball teams had a lot of fun. We learnt a lot of new skills that improved over the season. The teams made great progress in the techniques and understanding the rules for volleyball. Despite the lack of games, we all played really hard. We had an overall great season, thanks to Mme. Carriere, our coach, who supported us through every game.

This year the bantam basketball team had a successful and fun season. The team participated in the Montreal Invitational Tournament and enjoyed some success at the Bishops College School tournament where we had a great time. We would like to thank our inspiring coach Mrs. Balfour for helping us improve our skills. The highlight of our season was our second to last game against ECS. Thanks to everyone, especially our teammates, our manager, our scorekeepers and our enthusiastic supporters.

This year, the midget basketball team was the greatest ever at the Study! After all, we were the only midget basketball team for quite some time. We had an amazing season and, one of the many highlights, was the unforgettable tournament at Villa Maria. Through our own personal triumphs, we learned that winning the game isn't the only thing that matters. Sometimes we lolligagged, but we always found the open spaces and did our dipsy doos! Thanks to our wonderful team manager, Manna Chan, who always psyched us up for the games. Last but not least, thanks to Mr. Carrière for not only teaching us how to play the game. "My head is in my hands, but I'm still happy." Just remember... WINNING ISN'T EVERYTHING!

Good luck to next year's team!

Captains: Lisa Heckler & Anne Hospod

Juvenile Basketball

We all had a great season this year. We won 6 games and lost 6 games and just missed the playoffs. Don't worry, we did a lot better than last year! Everyone played really well and we had tons of fun. Thanks a lot to all our teammates for making our last year on the team a really awesome one. Bishops was great, and we were all really happy to finally win against ECS. On behalf of the whole team, we'd like to thank Shannon Cleland, for being a great coach.

BANTAM

This year the bantam badminton team had a very successful season. We had a lot of laughs, and loads of fun. We never ran out of energy, and we were always ready for a good challenge. We would like to thank our coach Mrs. Crossley for her time and patience. Thank you also to all our supporters who came to watch our matches. We hope to see you all back next year cheering us on.

MIDGET

This year the midget badminton team had a very successful season. At every tournament, the team showed great enthusiasm and sportsmanship. As always our doubles teams were strong, powerful and came through the season with flying colors. Our singles players also showed great ability and determination. Thanks go to Mrs. Crossley for her support, and to the various parent drivers for their help. Congratulations to everyone for a great season.

JUVENILE

The Juvenile Badminton team has had a very successful season. The team showed spirit and enthusiasm and played each game as if it were their last. They managed to defeat every team in their division, making their record a perfect score of six wins and no losses. They also competed in the G.M.A.A. badminton team finals on April 26 and 27. Congratulations to all who played! Good luck to next year's team!

Cross Country Running

This years cross-country running team enjoyed all of its events. Although we were not the largest team The Study has ever produced, we were definitely the most energetic and enthusiastic one. Special thanks to Mme Jothy for leading us. Together we experienced many thrills, some ups and others downs, including running in the rain. We didn't complain, but it's up to you to decide whether it was an up or a down! We would also like to thank all our supporters. We had a great season and we hope that next year's team will be just as successful. Good luck and have fun!

Track and Field

The track & field team had many events this year. We started out with the relay meet and then went to the track meet the following week. We were very successful on the day of the track meet, and qualified to continue on to the finals. We were blessed with two beautiful days of sun, but unfortunately it rained the whole the day of the finals. Despite the discouraging weather, we managed to bring home quite a few medals. Congratulations to everyone who participated, and thank you to our coaches and everyone else who helped us at the field. All in all we had a very successful season and we all look forward to returning next year and enjoying the spoils of victory again. See you all then!

Touch Football

This season the touch football team enjoyed much success. We started off with a tournament, where we won one game and lost two close ones. We then managed to hold a record of one win, three losses and a tie game. Most of our games were very competitive, and our first year players really showed up and aquired the necessary skills. We'd like to thank Mr. Lochtie and Roland Bienvenue for always encouraging us, and our supporters who cheered us on. Good luck to next year's team!

In the Midget level, Karen and Alex, the team's MVPs, scored 3rd. Jess finished with a 4th and Julie and Kristin made it to the finals, scoring 2nd overall. Finally, at the Bantam level, the whole team was very successful. Olivia and Angela were the MVPs. CREATIVITY

USE YOUR OWN!

Asli and I: The Beginning

A humid, brilliant summer day. My eleven-and-a-half-year-old legs swing idly, not quite touching the black-and-white checkered linoleum floor. As I shift impatiently in my seat my sticky legs peel away from the plastic chair, which stings like a giant Band-Aid. The gleaming sun filters boisterously through the open window, setting the mall, cave-like waiting room aglow, lending the passing moments an edge of surrealism. Not that they needed any more.

I glance over at my great-aunt, one of my mother's beloved aunts. Her mouth twitches in an awkward imitation of a smile as her eyes flit like quaking hummingbirds around the room. Why do you worry? I think loudly to myself. Why, I question with my egocentric perspective, are you here with me anyway? I barely know you! But for my mother's sake I smile back at her because today is my mother's day. Hers and a certain someone else's, whom I know even less than this great aunt perching like a parakeet beside me.

I peel myself off the Band-Aid and walk to the vending machines down the hall; fifteen long strides and ten regular ones over 43 squares of linoleum away from the entrance to the cave, where I must wait. I peek towards the swinging doors down the hall in the other direction, waiting for them to jump open and return my parents to me. It as been a long time since they were swallowed up. It feels like even longer.

I take stock of the vending machine offerings, without really noticing what they hold. I sigh; a deep, dark, tolerant, eleven-and-a-half-year-old sigh. My child-like perceptions smell change in the wind; extreme change like I have never known, mingled with something chocolaty. I turn back towards the waiting room and decide to see if I an make it down the corridor in twenty leaps. Small goals to wile away the big hours. I hop, skip and jump down the hallway, pausing to regain my balance because it doesn't count if you fall over. Suddenly, the gaping doors erupt and my father trips out. He is dressed in pale blue from head to foot, with shower caps on his feet, which don't belong there, and one on his head, which does. His aura wraps around me, spreading joy, confusion and ecstasy like an epidemic.

"It's a girl!" he shouts. "It's a baby girl!"

And I spring into his arms. Now we are four.

After that memorable moment I am finally allowed past the hungry doors, into the private realm of hushed voices and constant activity. Tall adults pat my shoulder gently and push past me less gently. My father, bouncing off the walls with the widest smile I have ever seen spread across his face, is barely coherent, let alone aware. I guide him towards the wheeled table where my mother lies. She is red in the face and just as disoriented as he is, if not more so. I grip her limp fingers and grin at her drowsy, relaxed face. They take her to an observation room and she glides away fluidly. My father and I are left standing there. A man comes out with his large arms cupped gently around a small white bundle.

"Would you like to hold her?" The question is directed not at my father but at me. I nod mutely.

I sit in a chair that is suspiciously similar to the waiting room Band-Aid chair and the doctor hands me the bundle; I listen intently to the instructions he murmurs. At first all I see is white blanket. My short knobby fingers slowly unfurl the layers, revealing a creature such as I have never seen before. Tiny beyond description, she's an incredibly surprising little being. A small, smushed face, red as a ripe tomato, a squished pug nose and drooping eyelids. Her thick hair is dark and matted against her skull with a mysterious white powdery substance washed into it. Miniature fingers, as slender and frail as rubber bands, whip out of nowhere and swipe blindly at me. I know not to duck away and bend my head down so that the fingers meet the soft resistance of my face. If I concentrate hard I can feel her weight in my short arms, but only barely. The most extraordinary feature on this baby face is her long swooping eyelashes. In fact, as I found out later, the doctor's first words, after "It's a girl!" were "It's a good thing those eyelashes weren't wasted on a boy!" Right now her eyelashes are stuck to her cheeks, no doubt the result of a substance not unlike that in her hair. Her eyes are unfocused and she blinks sleepily as I grin down at her. I want desperately to name her Selin, but when I look into her face I can tell she is destined to be an Asli. Not an Asli, but Asli. My Asli. And I was the first to hold her!

Queridas amigas,

Hola! Cómo están? Somos la primera clase de espanol de la escuela "The Study". Nuestra primer ano fue muy divertido. Hemos aprendido muchas cosas: los números, los verbos, el abecedario, el tiempo, la fecha, los adjectivos, cómo fabricar un diálogo y mucho vocabulario. We had a lot of fun playing BINGO on Fridays and watching "The Mask of Zorro". Designing our own houses was interesting. We would like to thank senora Girard for teaching us and we hope that next year will also be a successful year.

GOOD-BYE

First one last breath,
Then last heart beat,
Will lead you to eternal sleep.

The last good-bye, last touch,
last kiss;
But know my dear, you will be missed.

I wish that I could keep you here,
But we both know,
The end is near.

Still do not cry, cause you will see
One day together we will be.
I will not let your memory die,
So one last smile,
My dear...
Good-bye.

Friendship

Once there was a caterpillar and her name was Jordan, but she did not have any friends. So Jordan was walking beside the flowers, and then Jordan saw a ladybug. She can be my friend. The ladybug said my name is Claudia. So then they became friends, and so Jordan and Claudia were dancing and playing. Then they lived together and that was the story of a caterpillar and a ladybug, and they lived happily ever after. The end.

Une Amie

Si j'avais une meilleure amie
Je travaillerais avec elle
Et on pourrait se maquiller pour etre belle.
Je lui dirais tout ce qu'il y a dans mon coeur
En allant chez la fleuriste pour achêter des fleurs.

Je pourrais aussi lui parler de la peine que j'ai
Dans un bon restaurant en ètè.
Elle ferait la même chose pour moi
Et je la consolerai.

On aurait du bon temps ensemble
Assises sur le sable au bord de l'océan
En mangeant de la crême glacèe
Toute sucrèe!

On se chicanera surement entre nous
Mais tout se reglera aprés tout.

Fumer

Est-ce que tu sais ce que c'est que "fumer"?
C'est dommage pour la santé.
Toutes tes dents deviennent noires
De la couleur du trottoir.

Si tu fumes, tu vas tousser;
C'est pas vraiment très sérieux
Mais c'est absolument assez
Pour comprendre que fumer
Est vraiment très dangereux.

La fumée fait vraiment mal
Pour les poumons en général
Tes poumons deviennent noirs
Juste comme la couleur du soir.

Et toutes les maladies que cela cause...
Mourir à cause d'une cigarette
Ces malheureux et malheureuses
N'ont pas utilisé leurs têtes.

Alors, avant de commencer
Arrête-toi, juste pour penser
Veux-tu fumer, ensuite mourir,
Ou planifier ton avenir?

Bravery

Bravery is not something that comes out of the bloom.
You do not say
I will be brave soon.
You cannot go up to a snake and say
"You will never awake."
Bravery is an extraordinary power
but can be as delicate
as a petal of a flower.
People that are brave are strong at heart
but you're not always brave
but some people start.
Harriet Tubman
was brave to the end and I am sure
she was a great friend.
When you're brave you can be tall, short, or lazy you can also be strong, weak, or crazy.
You don't say
I'll start being brave in December.
But I must say however if you want to be brave
it is very true
you don't have to like people but you have to understand you're risking
YOU!

I am thankful for the seasons.

In fall, I thank God for the many colours of the leaves. We celebrate Thanksgiving and Halloween. We have sweet pumpkin pies to eat.

In winter, I thank God for snow. We celebrate Christmas and Hanukka and Chinese New Year.

In spring, I thank God for the new buds of trees and flowers. We celebrate Easter.

In summer, I thank God for the beautiful flowers and juicy fruits. We celebrate my birthday on

I jumped on a spoon to go on the moon,
But there was nothing there.
I jumped back down to touch the ground
But there was a star following me.

She was soooo bright
That I almost lost my sight,
So I started a fight
So that she might
Go back to the night
Together with the moon

When she went back to the moon
I was soooo happy
That I jumped back on the spoon
To go to the moon
To wave
Good Night!

The Lion's Pride

I watch you,
I see your mask of deception.
You fool those innocent but naive admirer's.

That's exactly what you don't want to be,
naive.
But, do you,
Can you believe those lies you tell yourself?

Your insides ache from broken trust,
Learning the hard way is a painful lesson.

Yearning for a confidante,
You wonder why,
Why don't you open up?
Is it a question of pride?
You cannot reveal your wound.

But how do I know this?
I know your mask,
I feel your pain,
I share your secret.

Going Home

By: Sarajane Froerer, Secondary V

Often it is asked, "Where is home?" To me that is a rhetorical question; the question to be asked is, "What is home?" Without knowing where you are going, how are you ever going to get there? If someone was searching in this life for their 'home' it would only be in vain, for without knowing what it is you are searching for, you may stumble upon it and not even know that you have found that thing which you desire to find. Or, you may be searching in the wrong place all together and in this case you would never, no matter how hard you tried, find that which you search for. So, what is Home? I do not specify it as 'a home' for the simple reason that there are many homes to be found. I like to look at home as not always just being a place but as being a state which one comes to. For me Home manifests itself in many different ways and many places; a beautiful river on whose banks I run, the cool night air upon my cheek as I gaze at the glittering stars above. Home to me is even felt while looking into the eyes of a long lost friend of this earth whom I have found. Home is peace, it's a feeling that fills your heart and does not leave room for anything else but contentment. It is a serene little world which belongs to you, for you to gain strength from and extract the necessary strength to go on. It is a spring which lives in each of us and exists that we might replenish ourselves and be filled with joy. And now you may ask, "Where is home?" I would answer and say, it is in you. Just beyond, inside that is where it lies. You can find it. If you but search for it, you can find it.

When I opened my eyes...

When I opened my eyes I saw hundreds of stars shining. Each one was different. They shined in the sky like little diamonds that sparkle in the moonlight. Their reflection was seen in the silvery lake; it looks like the stars fell into the water. They were like crystals.
